Descripton of accommodation

It is an extremely stylishly furnished apartment in an old building with antique charm, which invites you to work creatively and relaxed. The large bedroom contains a 1.80 double bed with bedside tables and a single bed, dressing mirror and chest of drawers. The study room right next door houses a large desk, part of the apartment's humanities library and a piano. The light-flooded living and dining room, connected by a passage door, spreads a cosy atmosphere with its chandelier and stylish furnishings. The study and bedroom are connected by a large balcony, from which you can let your gaze wander towards the city centre and the mountain panorama of Innsbruck. The spacious, well-equipped kitchen can also be used as a small dining room. This is directly adjoined by a small loggia with a view of the Serlesspitze and the ski jump. The utility room is directly attached to the kitchen. All rooms lead off from the large hallway. There is a bathroom with walk-in shower, bidet and washing machine. The toilet is located in a separate room. At the end of the hallway is a walk-in wardrobe room with ample possibility to store clothes.
