Landstraße is the 3rd municipal District of Vienna. The name Landstraße means "country road". To the tourists, it is mostly known for the 18th-century castle and gardens of Belvedere, the residence of Eugene of Savoy, which today houses the Austrian Gallery. Another residence was built by the Russian envoy to Vienna, Count Razumovsky. A more recent point of interest is the Hundertwasserhaus apartment block designed in a dream-like style by the architect and painter Friedensreich Hundertwasser. Museums in Landstraße include the Kunst Haus Wien and the Museum of Art Fakes.

The apartments are located at Schnirchgasse 13, a 5-minute walk from the underground station Schlachthausgasse. With the underground line 3 you are in 15 minutes at Stephansplatz which is in the heart of Vienna. The apartments are located in the modern and newly built Vienna Triple Tower and you will find a cozy coffee there on the ground floor of the building. A selection of restaurants, cafés and bars can be found in the surroundings. One of our favorites, which is near from the apartment is Amon's Gastwirtschaft, it offers delicious dishes at all times of the day and wonderful seating in a cozy dining room.

Not far away and famous for authentic Austrian cuisine, a visit to the famous Schweizerhaus near the Prater amusement park should not be missed - the excellent stilts are famous.
